PACES

Multi-Disciplinary Program for Fall Prevention

Each of our patients is screened for fall risk at the time of admission to care. If the risk is significant, our professional clinicians work together to develop a customized fall reduction plan that addresses all of the unique factors that contribute to that client's risk.

Nightingale's PACES program is designed to evaluate and address fall risks associated with:

- Safety and functionality in the home environment
- Mobility, balance and/or strength deficits
- Use of cautionary medications
- Cognitive, perceptual and/or sensory problems, including neuropathy
- Poorly managed incontinence
- Uncontrolled pain
- Unsafe or ineffective use of adaptive equipment
- Unsafe or ineffective completion of activities of daily living
- Poor nutritional status
- Orthostatic hypotension
- Lack of resources for recommended home modifications
